Welcome Greeting

Dear Colleague all over Indonesia,

Since the last symposium and Workshop of Latest Indonesian Association of Cardiovascular Anesthesiologists (IACA) 2016 in Medan now the IACA 2018 will be held in Bali as our continuous medical education. The central committee of IACA pointed Udayana University/Sanglah Hospital as the host of IACA 2018. Theme that we decided for current IACA symposium and workshop will be "Improving Safe Anesthesia Practice for Patients with Cardiac Problem: From Urban to Rural Hospital" which we as professional specialty doctor need to participate in developing and managing comprehensive and safe anesthesia for patient which has cardiac problems which will undergo non cardiac operation especially in rural area which have limitations to central referral which had cardiac anesthesiology consultant.

Anesthesia management for patient with cardiac problems will undergo non-cardiac operation was terrifying in our practice due to lack of hospital facility and the most important is updated training and in this area to solve and face this problem. We as the committee will facilitate by held this continue medical education which we hope that we as anesthesiologist and doctors especially doing their practice in rural area will provide better service to patient.

Our scientific team worked very hard to pick scientific program which are very useful, interesting and will be comprehensively deliver to you as a workshop, lecture with new updates and professional in their specialties. Not only workshop but Continuing Professional Development (CPD) is the important event to increase knowledge and technique as anesthesiologist and intensivist. We also have national poster competition to present new case and updates.

About BALI!

Why BALI?

When talking about about tourism we're usually referring to European tourism in the 20th Century. The first western account of visiting Bali was by Dutchman Aernoud Lingens in 1907. Other famous westerners that followed included the Danish trader Made Lange (200th anniversary Sept 18th 2007) and German artist Walter Spies. Spies was part of the real force that created an aura around Bali, inspiring people as far away as New York and Paris to take interest in a seemingly lost paradise rediscovered. Walter Spies lived a good chunk of his time in Campuhan close to Ubud and his paintings of village scenes in Bali really are atmospheric. Riding around Ubud / Campuhan in this present time one can see similar sights, that make one stop and wonder 'did Spies paint at this location?'

In the first part of the 20th Century tourists reached Bali by steamship from Java landing in the port of Buleleng (Singaraja), the first tourist (The Bali Hotel) hotel was opened 1926 and located in Denpasar, which means a drive over the mountains and through bangli, as documented by Miguel Covarrubias in 1938. Visitors would travel by limousine enjoying the traffic free roads, which in those days were probably not in the greatest shape.

Artists from overseas preferred the more exotic locations of Ubud, Campuhan, Sideman and Isak. Balinese Prince Tjokorda Gede Agung Sukawati started a movement for the revival and continuation of Balinese art. His close friends Walter Spies and Rudolf Bonnes providing a new set of skills and ideas. The present location of the Hotel Tjampuhan was the first travelers hotel in the area, opening in 1937. Adrien Jean Le Mayeur de Merpenbaing himself in Sanur after arriving in 1932.

In 1938 Bob Kelle and his wife Louise, opened the Kuta Beach Hotel creating an informal (for the period) type of accommodation and atmosphere for visitors. The simple bamboo and along along thatched roofed creating an idyllic setting on peaceful and mostly used Kuta Beach.

The 1940's saw the emergence of Sanur on the SE coast come into its own, with famous expats such as Australian artist Donald Friend and take up residence. The tranquil waters of Sanur protected by a reef was a perfect place for a large hotel, the Grand Bali Beach Hotel being the largest of its day.

The idea for Nusa Dua started in the 1970's with a stretch of mangrove and white sand beach on the eastern Bukit being transformed into a line of 10 luxury resorts.

Bali's international airport, Ngurah Rai in Tuban (although referred to as Denpasar) opened in 1969, the wrecks of planes being hauled off and left at the edge of the airport in the early days.

During the 1980's mass tourism started to make headway in with Legian emerging as the place to be and Lemopak the next in line. In those days there were cell phones, internet, ATM machines. Calling travelers check could take 30 minutes and 'yowie restoran' was a popular service. Expats living in the Kuta/Legian area would often frequent the Goa Club located on J. Legian. People said that if you needed to contact another expat, you could leave a note or be reasonably confident that person would show up there sometime the same day.

The first surfers in Bali enjoyed the beach breaks of Kuta, but since the 1990's adventurous people have been discovering better breaks on the southern outcrop known as the Bukit(hill). Famous names such as Uluwatu, Padang Padang and Bingin challenge the world's best and in the 21st Century, Jembran Bay and the Bukit are exploding with development. One suspects that with the completion of the Kusamba bypass connecting Tohpati (near Denpasar) with East Bali, the area around Candl Dasa could be the next boom town in Bali.
